Learning to give . . .

Over the years it has been wonderful to follow the many different children who have literally grown up under the care of our work. They have received so much & this year we are teaching them the importance of looking out for the needs of others & being deliberate about giving back.

Here is a short report from the teen's youth leader:

Teens Club Hospital Outreach

This year we have been challenged to give back to the community as teenagers and not expect to receive always. As a start, we organized to visit the bed ridden children in Dora Nginza Hospital with 25 teenagers who come to Emmanuelle Teen Club at the Centre. We took toiletries & toys with us as gifts to give to those who are struggling & would need them. We decided to separate the teens into groups of 4 & separated the gifts according to the wards. I could see the excitement & nervousness in their faces since this was their first time to be on this kind of outreach. We went ward by ward, starting out conversations just to know why the kids are there, delivering the gifts where they were needed & saying little prayers. There was a smile in their faces & we were glad to bring a little difference in their worlds! We saw a great need to do this more often & when we came out of the hospital we were so grateful for our health & that, for a change, we were able to make the difference for someone else!
